Dear Mr. Healy,

I plan to return to New Orleans Wednesday. I would like to give you a set of my books, a personal set rather than for the office, which I have already supplied. If I may, I will call your secretary to see when I may deliver them.

Enclosed is a copy of a review of my published work by a Tulane professor, from the "New Orleans Review". I do not know whether you saw it. I think it is just out.

After I saw you I went to Dallas. If you are interested in what I learned there, I'd be glad to tell you.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
